ControlUp provides rich, real-time data from the underlying infrastructure combined with data from the Citrix stack, including Citrix Delivery Controllers, Cloud Connectors, PVS, and more.

ControlUp provides synthetic testing of published applications from inside the corporate network and from outside, as well as granular network-level synthetic tests that can help detect performance degradation as it happens and allow you to be proactive in addressing it before end-users even notice.

ControlUp has an extensive community script library that can be used in conjunction with ControlUp Automate to, in effect, make Citrix environments self-healing.

Use ControlUp Remote DX to observe a user's network connection all the way into the Citrix VDA, including the all-important home Wi-Fi signal strength and latency between the user's endpoint and router AND their router out to the internet.

Give IT increased visibility and control over employees' digital experience, no matter where they work - in the office, from home or on the road.
